

AIMS IN BIG FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Health Department Will Have Experts Give Talks for Week.

URGES PUBLIC HELP
TO DEFEAT DISEASE

Better Housing, Easier Transit, Cheaper Living, Needed to Win Battle.

Beginning to-morrow the Department of Health will give lectures throughout the city as its contribution to the educational work of "tuberculosis week."

In its "Weekly Bulletin" under the caption "This is Tuberculosis Week," the department asserts that "wonderful results, as shown in the fall in the death rate, have been produced." "In the City of New York," says "The Bulletin," "the death rate from pulmonary tuberculosis has fallen from 1.37 in 1900 to 1.00 in 1913. Though its decrease is gratifying, there are signs of a beginning of public apathy, due to a mistaken impression that but little remains to be done. Thoughtful citizens have long realized that more must be done to strike at the underlying causes of tuberculosis. In this city particularly we must continue to work for better housing conditions."

"Our greatest problem has a very definite relation to tuberculosis, and we will be measurably nearer our goal if we can provide decent suburban housing conditions accessible to the business centers. We are still far behind European cities in intelligent city planning."

"The conditions under which many of our working people labor add greatly to the difficulty of the solution of the tuberculosis problem. The increasing cost of food increases serious consideration."

The article proceeds to mention some of the precautions that should be taken in the crusade against tuberculosis, notably the segregation of the sufferers, who may receive proper treatment and finally the periodic examination of all employees. On this last "The Bulletin" says:

"Experience has shown that this is one of the most certain means of detecting disease in its incipency. With so much still to be done, let us all work together. We need your help."

The names of the lecturers, lecture centers and dates of the lectures given under the auspices of the Department of Health follow:

CHURCH SOLOIST CUTS HIS THROAT

Bank Clerk Found Dying in Bathroom by Wife—Suicide
Due to Worry.

Bradford Arthur More, thirty-eight years old, a soloist in the choir of the Flushing Dutch Reformed Church, committed suicide at his home, at 407 Amity st., Flushing, yesterday morning by cutting his throat with a razor. His friends and family physician, Dr. Joseph S. Thomas, say that More was suffering from temporary insanity brought on by worry and close application to business.

He was a clerk in the Bank for Savings at 250 Fourth av., Manhattan, and had made preparations to take the 8:00 train from Flushing as usual, when he went into the bathroom on the second floor of his home. His wife called to him that he must hurry or miss his train. She received no answer, and the door was broken open and More was found dying on the floor with a gash across his throat.

More was well known in musical circles and was scheduled to take part in the concert of the Orpheus Singers at the Leaside Building, in Flushing, on Friday night of next week. His wife was the daughter of the late Frank Judd, of Flushing, and has been a contralto soloist in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, in Flushing.

James Knowles, controller of the bank for Savings, said More was one of the trusted employees of the institution for the last ten years. It is said his accounts at the bank are all right. More was born in St. Catharines, Canada. He was a member of the Men's Club of the Dutch Reformed Church and also of the Orpheus Glee Club, of Flushing. He has a daughter six years old.

CITY USES F. P. A. POEM

Reprints It in "City Record" and Health Dep't. Bulletin.

Official documents seldom blossom forth with poetry, but the current issues of "The City Record" and the Bulletin of the Health Department are exceptions to the rule. In each is reproduced the poem "The Double Standard," with which "F. P. A." led his "column" on Monday.

"F. P. A. on the Right Track" is the title under which the poem dealing with "Editorial Dr. Jekyll" and "Advertising Mr. Hyde," who preaches honesty, but prints fraudulent advertisements of quack patent medicines, is reprinted.

PLAYMATES HIT BY TRAIN

Boy Clings to Girl's Hand as They Are Tossed Into Air.

Madison, N. J., Nov. 28.—Heeding the advice of his mother not to let go of the hand of three-year-old Elizabeth Tetofsky, four-year-old Charles Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morse, of Main st., Madison, when a Lackawanna train bore down on them this morning held the little ones' hand tightly. Both were struck, hurled in the air and landed on a bank of sand.

The little boy's collarbone was broken and the girl received minor cuts and bruises. They were both taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where it was said they had every chance of recovery.

MRS. SIEGEL WINS STEP IN DIVORCE

She Names Three Women and Referee Urges Decree for Her.

The divorce suit of Mrs. Marie Vaughan Siegel against Henry Siegel, former drygoods merchant and banker, has been heard without the presence of Siegel, and if the report of Maurice Deiches, referee, is confirmed Mrs. Siegel will obtain her interlocutory decree in a few days.

The referee filed his report yesterday. He recommended that the divorce be granted, and former Judge Nash Rockwood, counsel for the wife, will move, probably on Thursday, that the findings be approved.

When the suit was filed it was understood that the trial of the case would be in open court. Then Siegel and his wife agreed on a reference. That there had been many hearings became known only yesterday.

Siegel put in a defence to the charges of his wife. But the fact that the hearings were conducted while he was on trial in Geneva is taken as indicating that the former banker's defence was merely a formal one. He was represented by Lemuel Eli Quigg.

Mrs. Siegel complained of three women. One of these, Miss May Smith, a nurse of Toronto, Canada, has threatened a court action against the plaintiff for mentioning her. Another woman was Mrs. Eddy. The name of the third was not known to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Siegel was a widow when she married Henry Siegel. She has a daughter by the first marriage. She has made no application for alimony.

There is now pending a suit which Mrs. Siegel has brought against her husband to vacate certain papers by which she signed away her dower rights in property held by him. In the same action she seeks to recover a large quantity of personal effects, including the certificate of her marriage to her first husband.

ORDER OF CARABAO ABANDONS DINNER

Members Fearful of Offending
President with Their Jollity, as Happened Last Year.

(From The Tribune Bureau.)

Washington, Nov. 28.—The military order of the Carabao, composed of army and navy officers who have seen service in the Philippines, has practically decided to abandon its annual dinner, which was the cause of bringing down on their heads the censure of the President last year.

After much deliberation and scheming to arrange a programme of entertainment without "damning the Filipino" in song or making jokes, references to the "battleship Pillo," the army and navy officers who preside over the affairs of the Carabao decided that the wisest course would be not to dine at all. This action was reflected in a resolution to issue no invitations.

To escape the censure of the President, the Carabao tried to devise a function that would not lack merriment. The uproarious songs about the little brown brethren were to be hushed and there were to be no references to the peace policies of the Secretary of State or Mr. Daniels's navy schools. Everything was to be proper and a censorship committee was appointed to see that nothing was said or done to violate the Executive ideas of propriety.

This plan was later abandoned and it was proposed to have an "executive session" behind locked doors at the Army and Navy Club. Realizing the publicity that usually attends execution sessions of the Senate, this plan also was dropped. Finally the resolution to issue no invitations prevailed and the Carabao apparently came to the conclusion that, if they were to "damn the Filipino" at all, they had better do it individually and under their breath, and there was not much fun, anyway, in having a Carabao wallow without damping them and taking flings at various things about which the sacred veil of propriety has been thrown.

Their intention is summed up as follows:

"We believe it to be in the interest of Germany and of German manufacturers, as well as in the interest of the commerce of the United States, especially also in the interest of all importers of German products, that an exhibition of German products at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition shall take place."
